DVC Foundation WASH Program: Changing Lives in Kasanda District

In the rolling hills of Kasanda District, we at DVC Foundation witnessed a reality that demanded action.

Before our intervention, access to safe water was a daily struggle for the community. Children woke up early each morning, not to prepare for school, but to walk long distances in search of water. They relied on a small, contaminated stream–water that was unsafe, shared with insects, and often the cause of frequent illness. Families lived with the constant risk of waterborne diseases, and children missed valuable school time simply because clean water was out of reach.

01

Improved Access to Safe Water

We knew this had to change.

Through our WASH (Water, Sanitation, and Hygiene) program, we stepped in with a clear mission: to provide safe, sustainable access to clean water while improving hygiene and sanitation practices in the community. We worked closely with local leaders and residents, ensuring that the solution would not only serve them today but for years to come.

02

Better Health and Hygiene Outcomes

We knew this had to change.

What once was a place of struggle quickly becoming a center of transformation. The first flow of clean water marked a turning point not just in access, but in the lives of the people we serve. Children now gather around the borehole with smiles, pumping fresh, safe water with ease. No more long, exhausting journeys. No more reliance on contaminated sources.

Enhanced Community Well-being and Productivity

Children arrive at school on time, energized and ready to learn. Cases of waterborne diseases have significantly reduced. Families are practicing better hygiene, and the community is healthier and more productive. Women and caregivers now have more time to focus on their families and livelihoods.

At DVC Foundation, we don't just provide water–we create lasting change. Our WASH program in Kasanda District is a reflection of our commitment to restoring dignity, improving health, and empowering communities.

This is our story. This is our impact.
